Subject: Microsoft's campaign for comments

FYI: "Americans for Technology Leadership" phoned our (small) office 3 times plus sent us a brochure in the mail soliciting comments in support of their position on the Microsoft case (that the November agreement be accepted as the final word). Only by carefully checking their web site does one find out that they are funded by Microsoft Corp. (a "Founding Member").

Personally I do not support allowing predatory or anti-competitive business practices, and I think any comments submitted through "Americans for Technology Leadership" (there is a form to fill out on their web site) should be viewed in light of their being solicited by an intensive campaign funded by Microsoft Corp. (through a front organization) presenting the Microsoft position only in favorable terms.

Thank you for your interest in fairness.
